Qorrolli - Direct

 \parallel for it.

2.4

MR. HOLZBERG: Your Honor, I would like to offer this letter into evidence as notice to the defendant.

MR. WIMS: Objection, your Honor.

THE COURT: Overruled.

I will let you lay a foundation, counsel, as to how the plaintiff learned of this letter.

BY MR. HOLZBERG:

- Q. Tesa, how did you learn of this letter?
- A. This letter was faxed to the general practice where I was working, and so when the front desk received it, you know, they showed it to me and I made a copy of it. I wanted to have a copy for myself.

MR. HOLZBERG: Your Honor, I would like to publish this letter to the jury.

MR. WIMS: Objection, your Honor.

THE COURT: So, I am going to receive this document in evidence. You have testimony here that it came to the office in October of 2015 and the plaintiff made a copy of it at that time but I can't underscore enough -- I think you have all got the point -- nothing in this letter can be taken for the truth -- nothing -- unless you had a witness on the stand, under oath, able to give you eyewitness testimony about the events at issue. Otherwise, it is just something that came over the fax machine. But, obviously, it is part of the history here. As the plaintiff has recounted it, this document was received in the office in 2015 while she was an employee and she is entitled to tell you about what occurred after it was received. If you believe it was received in the office at that time you are entitled to consider what happened as a result of it being received.

Qorrolli - Direct

Plaintiff's Exhibit 1.
(Plaintiff's Exhibit 1 received in evidence)
THE COURT: Excuse me, counsel. You can't hand things to the jury without talking with me.
MR. HOLZBERG: Sorry. Your Honor, I asked if I may publish this letter to the jury. May I hand it to THE COURT: You have one copy?
MR. SMITH: Your Honor, we have an enlargement.
THE COURT: OK. So, ladies and gentlemen, any exhibits received in evidence will be available to you during your deliberations.
Counsel, continue with your examination.
MR. HOLZBERG: Sure. Your Honor, rather than providing the jury with a copy, may I show them the enlargement so they are all able to read it?
THE COURT: Sure.
MR. HOLZBERG: Thank you.
THE COURT: So, counsel, please ask your questions.
MR. HOLZBERG: Sure.